Market commentary

In the UK, GDP grew by 0.4% during the third quarter 2017 with services and industries driving growth. Inflation continued to rise and the CPI reached its highest level since March 2012. In an expected move, the Bank of England increased interest rates by 0.25% in November. Governor Carney stated that two further rises of 0.25% in the next three years would be consistent with inflation falling back towards the target rates. Despite the rate rise both UK Gilts and corporate bonds saw positive returns in the fourth quarter and year overall. Abroad, the US Federal Reserve raise interest rates for the third time in 2017 and the European Central Bank confirmed that they would continue to taper their quantitative easing in 2018. Yield curves tended to flatten, led by the US. Confidence has been supported by the improving economic outlook and the careful attempt by central banks to move towards more conventional interest rates.
